

RESEARCH PROFILE:*Prof. Dr. rer. nat. Friederike Zunke

---

SCIENTIFIC CAREER

2015 Graduation (PhD in Natural Sciences),
Department of Biochemistry, University of Kiel, Germany

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION AND ACADEMIC DEGREES

2010- 2011 Master of Research (MRes) in Biomedical Sciences,
St. Georges University of London, UK

2007-2010 Bachelor of Science (BSc) in Biochemistry,
University of Kiel, Germany

PROFESSIONAL CAREER

Since 2020 Professor (W1), Group leader
Department of Molecular Neurology, University Hospital
Erlangen, Friedrich-Alexander-University (FAU),
Germany

2016-2020 Postdoc, Independent Group Leader,
Institute of Biochemistry, University of Kiel, Germany

2015-2016 Postdoc, Department of Neurology, Northwestern
University, Chicago, USA

2013 Visiting Scientist, Department of Neurology, Harvard
Medical School/Massachusetts General Hospital,
Boston, USA (Laboratory of Dimitri Krainc)

2008-2010 Student assistant, Institute of Physiology and Biochemistry, University of Kiel, Germany

AWARDS

2019 Schilling Research Award 2019 of the German Neuroscience Society

2018 Kiel Life Science (KLS) Early Career Postdoc Award 2018 for excellent quality of research in Medical Life Sciences

2015 Poster selected for oral presentation (Gordon Conference on Lysosomal Diseases, Texas, United States)

2014 Poster prize (International Symposium on protein trafficking, Hamburg, Germany)

2013 Boehringer Ingelheim Fonds Associate (stipend for PhD studies)

2011 Master of Research poster prize
(St. George's University of London, UK)

2011 Student award ('Holsteiner Studienpreis')